THE SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION.

Two or three advantages are gained by the change of time for the election of School Trustees, as announced in last week's issue of THE RECORD.

The Trustees' term of office begins immediately upon their election. This enables them to obtain some familiarity with their duties before the opening of another school year. They can thus learn what qualifications are needed in the teachers and can by that means select those for the coming year more intelligently and with more discrimination.

It will enable them to secure for another year the services of such teachers as they wish to retain. Last year several valuable teachers were lost for the sole reason that they had already been engaged elsewhere.

The earlier election of the Trustees will also give such teachers as are not to be requested to remain in their present positions more timely notification of their dismissal. This will leave them a much better opportunity for seeking situations elsewhere.

The taking of the school census has also been changed from September to May. It is thought that at this time of year it will be much likelier to be correct, as in September many of the children have not yet returned from the summer resorts.

The conduct of the Schools during the past year has been eminently satisfactory and the composition of the School Board will undoubtedly remain substantially the same.

JAYNE'S "RIP VAN WINKLE."—Delightful old Rip Van Winkle, whom Washington Irving and Joseph Jefferson have made one of the most famous of American characters, is just published, with other of Irving's choicer "Sketches," in a charming little red-line, gilt edge, richly ornamented volume, for the marvelously low price of 35 cents, or by mail, 40 cents, by the Useful Knowledge Publishing Company, of New York City. They issue an edition of the same, bound in plain cloth, for 25 cents, postpaid, and another, new in style of binding, appropriately named "Utility," for only 15 cents, postpaid. These volumes are issued especially to show the book-buying millions the character of the literature and quality of workmanship, with the wonderful economy in cost, which the "Literary Rebellion" proposes to produce, a large number of standard and exceedingly desirable works being announced to follow rapidly, equal in quality and in economy of cost. The red-line edition is certainly one of the most exquisite little volumes which has ever found its way into the homes of ordinary mortals, and the "Utility" edition places the famous low price areas of the "Literary Rebellion" far in the background. The books will certainly be by the hundred thousand, and ought to sell by the million. A postal card will secure specimen pages and catalogues from the publishers, The Useful Knowledge Publishing Company, 162 William Street, New York City.

A COMMERCIAL VIEW OF LIFE AND DEATH.

The London Sunday Record quotes a recent writer on vital statistics, who calculates that of ten children born in Norway a little over seven reach their twentieth year; that in England and the United States of America somewhat less than seven reach that stage; that in France only five reach it, and in Ireland less than five. He tells us that in Norway, out of ten thousand born, rather more than one out of three reaches the age of seventy; in England, one out of four; in the United States, if both sexes be computed, less than one out of four; in France, less than one out of eight, and in Ireland less than one out of eleven, and he adds this significant computation, based on what may be called the commercial view of the vital question. In producing dead machinery the cost of all that is broken in the making is charged to the cost of that which is completed. If we estimate by this same rule the cost of life, we find that in Norway a man, who reaches the age of seventy, has cost the nation £1,000. In England, £1,200. In the United States, £1,500. In France, £1,800. In Ireland, £2,000. In Germany, £2,200. In Scotland, £2,500. In Italy, £3,000. In Spain, £3,500. In Portugal, £4,000. In Russia, £5,000. In Turkey, £6,000. In China, £7,000. In Japan, £8,000. In Australia, £9,000. In New Zealand, £10,000. In South Africa, £12,000. In Canada, £14,000. In the United States, £16,000.
